IMPERIAL LOCUST

(Plant Patent No. 1605)

A graceful spreading variety with symmetrically arranged branches forming a regular and compact tree. Foliage is dainty and refined, and leaflets are more closely spaced than the average Honeylocust forming a more dense cover. This tree grows straight without staking.

SKYLINE LOCUST

(Plant Patent No. 1619)

An unusual variety with distinctly pyramidal form. Branches are uniformly spaced, resulting in a well filled tree on a sturdy trunk which need not be staked or specially trimmed. Foliage is dark green and leaflets are larger and more closely spaced than the average Honeylocust.

RHODODENDRONS

Letters and numbers preceding variety names indicate relative hardiness.

H-1—Varieties hardy to —25° F. These varieties should be hardy in southern New York and southern New England.

H-2—Hardy to —15° F. H-3—Hardy to —5° F. These varieties should be fairly hardy in the southern part of Long Island, Cincinnati, Washington, around Philadelphia and St. Louis.

H-4—Hardy to +5° F. H-5—Hardy to +15° F. These varieties should be hardy during most winters in the Portland and Seattle areas. We consider all the Rhododendrons listed hardy in California with the exception of the northern inland portion of the State.

All ratings are subject to revision as more complete information is available.

PORTLAND ROSES

The roses we offer are all grown near Portland in good, sandy, loam soil, without irrigation, thus securing a particularly fine root system and firm, well-ripened wood. The stock is usually ready for shipment by December 1. A favorable growing season seems to indicate excellent quality for this year. (*) and () indicates intensity of fragrance.
